The leader as a coach

Coaching skills are key for leading: you will foster growth and ownership in the adults you lead.

To lead people well requires coaching skills more than ever before.

In times of artificial intelligence, work becomes more focused on real human skills.

Coaching can be done as part of the job as well as besides the job.

The professional coach

For working with individuals, teams or organizations you always need to know the source code of human behavior and how to alter this positively, which you learn in your coach training.

Many start their second career as a coach only years after their training. Your previous experience supports your USP and your market entry.

Personal development

To truly help others see their biases and inner belief sets, we need to be aware of our own values and belief sets.

Barriers to supporting others will become visible and can be worked on during the course, supported by our hand-picked external partners.

Why become a coach?

Becoming a coach also means self discovery

Coaching as part of your professional life

You love to work with people and want to support them in their human growth, as a leader, implicitly or as a coach, explicitly

You love to help but you don't know how to do this in a professional way without over-using your resources.

You could see yourself working as a coach professionally, either alongside your current role or part-time or full-time - once you've deepened your coaching experience

Personal growth

To truly help others, you need to help yourself first. Only if you know yourself, you will be able to see what is your share and what is your reaction to your coachee's sharing in your coaching sessions.

On your journey to become a coach you will be coached a lot – being able to ask those questions you always wanted to work on - with the help of some of the best coaches in the industry

You will get to know and love yourself - condition sine qua non for your successful work as a coach

Your journey to become a coach

Becoming a coach is more than learning techniques. Through practice, reflection and peer learning, you develop a coaching mindset grounded in respect, curiosity and non-judgment.

For many participants, this journey creates lasting personal and professional transformation.

We are unique

Education by 2-3 teaching coaches

- Through learning from senior coaches (PCC and MCC) high-quality education is guaranteed
- You learn from two ends: business background and deep psychology

ICF Level 1 accredited program

- International Coaching Federation (ICF) as biggest global certification institute with 65k members
- Introduces selected PCC-level skills while developing and documenting coaching competence at ACC level
- Personal credential on ACC level possible after 100hrs of coaching practice

Learn with the best peers

- International business people are your peers: you learn to coach with your future target group
- You will be surrounded by courageous learners who will challenge and support you in your learning journey

Gain real world experience

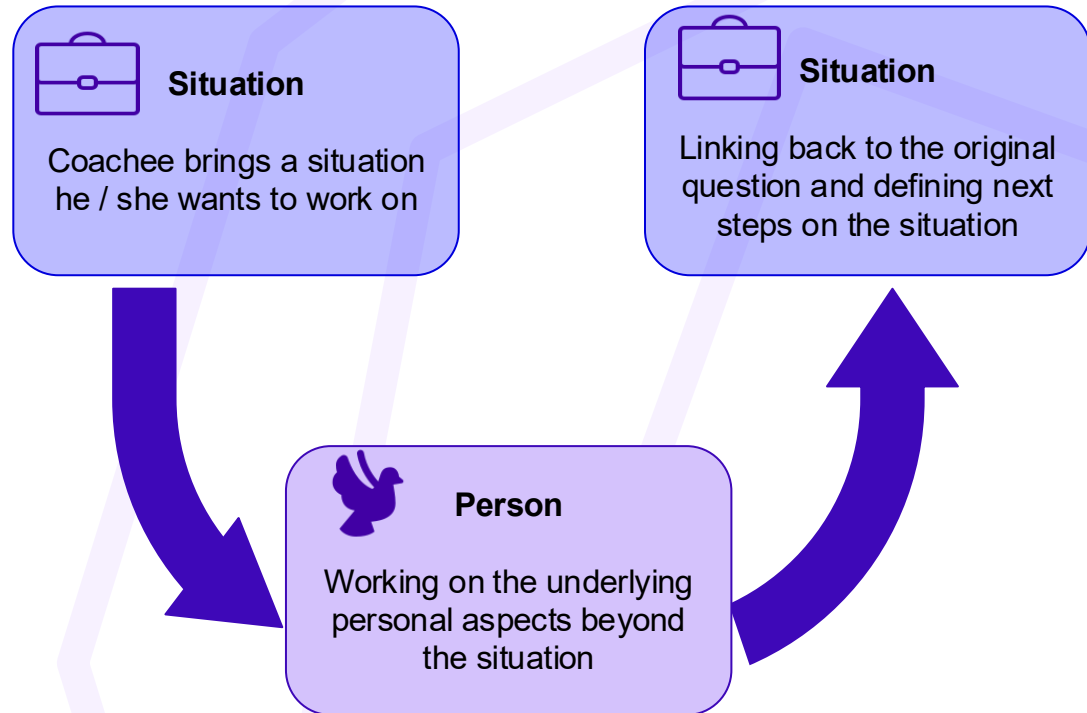

- You will coach all the time during our program: first your peers, then their connections and last our pro bono / NGO network
- In parallel to our program, you can start offering your services from day 1, and eligible coaching hours count toward the 100-hour ICF coaching-experience requirement

Our coaching philosophy

True development of the individual

Our coaching approach lifts the situational issue to the personal level. Thereby we drive a true personal development which enables the coachees to not only master the situation they'd like to solve right now, but to also discover themselves and develop tools so that they can efficiently handle new challenges that may arise in the future.

This approach requires a true interest in the person you are coaching and an extended understanding of inner dynamics.
